

Dress Code

Vanguard Classical School follows a dress code that is conducive to learning as well as manageable to enforce by the Vanguard educational team. Research indicates that a uniform dress code minimizes peer pressure, improves the appearance of the student body, and reinforces an academic atmosphere (“Manual on School Uniforms”, U.S. Department of Education). Additionally, the dress code facilitates the overall security of the school since visitors are readily identifiable by the Vanguard educational team.

Enrollment at Vanguard Classical School constitutes acceptance of this policy, agreement to adhere to and support the policy, and acknowledgement of discipline for noncompliance as set forth in the Vanguard Discipline Code. The final decision as to the safety or unsuitability of the clothing, hair, or jewelry will be left up to the Leadership Team of the school.

Please note that school colors include navy blue, maroon, and white.

Students may NOT be out of dress code at any point during the school day.

Physical Education: There is an exception for physical education classes. Students may change out for PE classes into clothing that is designed for athletic wear and is approved by their PE teacher no more than five (5) minutes before the class begins. The student must change back into appropriate dress code attire no more than five (5) minutes after the class ends. Failure to comply will result in a dress code consequence being issued.

Consequences: Failure to comply with the dress code will result in staff members issuing consequences. Each time a student receives a written warning, the warning will be carried by the student for the remainder of the day. This citation prevents further citations from being written only for dress code infractions that would require changing clothes (e.g., inappropriate top or bottom). Additional citations may be written for repetition of “easy fixes” (such as wearing a hat or outdoor jacket in the building).

Students may also receive consequences for refusing a reasonable request from a staff member if a student does not correct an “easy fix” in a timely manner (e.g. one-two minutes). Staff members will keep track of dress code violations throughout the school year using whatever method is most effective (e.g., class list, Google sheet/Google form, etc.)

In the first week of classes in the first semester, students will receive verbal warnings to correct dress code violations. Persistent violation of dress code in that week will be addressed with the parents.
